PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Recent Full-Stack Development graduate with a broad professional background spanning web development, IT systems, technical support, project coordination and customer-facing operations.

Combining newly developed full-stack skills with previous experience in IT, systems and network support, I am looking to begin the next stage of my technology career in a junior development, technical support or related technical role. I am particularly interested in web technologies, building and supporting digital products, troubleshooting technical issues, and developing practical expertise in APIs and system integrations.

Strong communicator with experience working with customers, technical teams and cross-functional stakeholders in fast-paced environments.
